

Salaries here are stable, report reveals

▼ SHARE ::  PRINT ::  EMAIL ::  TEXT SIZE

Wednesday December 14 2011

SALARIES in Ireland have stabilised and increased in some sectors as cautious optimism has grown amongst employers.

The annual Salary Survey gathers data from hundreds of employers and confirms that salary levels are increasing across IT, finance and sales roles in particular. Mairead Fleming, of Brightwater, the company behind the survey, said the analysis identified positive movement in the marketplace.